The author analysed number of historical financial crises (starting with Tulipmania and ending with the Global crisis in 2008) and put them into context with historical changes of the financial system. The analysis is made both theoretically and empirically.

OBJECTIONS AND REMARKS:

The thesis is well written and provides lots of interesting ideas and information to the reader. Issues are illustrated by 12 charts taken from other authors. The author proved good knowledge of the topic. On the other hand, I would appreciate a better empirical analysis in more depth illustrated by more (own) charts. Information sources are cited properly.
